DEEP cover

Tom Burke and Steve Coogan join the war on drugs in a 1990s-set true-crime thriller

NEW DRAMA
Legends
From Thu 7 May, Netflix

Drug kingpin Hakan and his son Aziz (Kem Hassan)

Guy with his wife and colleague Sophie

When Great Britain experienced a heroin epidemic in the early 1990s, HM Customs and Excise was instructed to stem the flow of the drug into the country by infiltrating the ruthless crime gangs responsible – and a top-secret undercover unit was assembled for that very purpose.

The true story of the high-risk mission is recounted in this new six-part drama from The Gold and Guilt creator Neil Forsyth, starring Steve Coogan as veteran customs investigator Don, who assembles and trains a diverse team before sending them out into the field in London, Liverpool and abroad armed with the fake identities.

'When you go undercover, you create a false identity, and that false identity is called your Legend,' explains Forsyth. 'You're either in Legend or you're out of Legend, which sounds simple – but as the team finds out, when those lines get blurred, things become very dangerous.'

The undercover recruits who make it through the stringent selection process are airport customs officer Guy (Strike's Tom Burke), Vice Division employee Kate (The Night Manager's Hayley Squires) and VAT inspector Bailey (I May Destroy You's Aml Ameen), while Civil Service secretary Erin (Marie Antoinette's Jasmine Blackborow) creates their paper trails and backstories.

As the series progresses, Guy soon faces tests that threaten to blow his cover, while the Liverpool team of Kate and Bailey investigates a suspicious bakery.

Don
Steve Coogan
The Head of Operations recruits the Legends, and answers to the Director of Customs Investigations, Angus Blake (Douglas Hodge).

Here, Coogan, 60, and Burke, 44, give us a preview of what's in store…

What can you tell us about your characters, Don and Guy?

Coogan Don is the ostensible head of customs, so he's in charge of the operation and training these young officers [for the mission]. He's the piggy in the middle between the suits in the Establishment and the people on the ground.

Burke Guy is working in airport security when we first meet him, and so is his wife Sophie, who is more aware than Guy of how stuck in a rut he is, and the effect it's having on their marriage. She encourages him to apply.

How would you describe Don and Guy's personalities and attitudes to the job?

Coogan Don's a working-class man who's climbed his way up by being good at his job. He's a moral man, despite his bluff, forthright nature, and he cares deeply about the welfare of the people who work for him.

Burke Guy needs to do something like this, because it's meaningful and purposeful, but also because it's dangerous, and he craves that. There's an adrenaline junkie in him. Somebody else would just go and do a bungee jump, but he needs a bit more. It's something he's got to do, to be able to get on with the rest of his life.

What are their vulnerabilities?

Burke There is a wildness in Guy, something from his childhood that you feel is unresolved. There's also a feeling that he's never quite done what he needed to – a side of him that he's pushed down, or has been pushed down by his environment.

Coogan Don's own experience of going undercover has left some post-traumatic stress. Thirty-something years ago, we didn't really use those words. We'd have described him as 'a bit damaged'.

What is the Legends team like as a whole?

Coogan The combination of Kate, Bailey, Erin and Guy makes for a very odd group. You wouldn't expect them to be in the same social circle, and they don't duplicate skill sets. They all bring something different to the table. Each person by themselves may lack something, but when they are all brought together by Don, they're greater than the sum of their parts.

Burke As the series goes on, they find that they complement each other as much as they rub each other up the wrong way.

Finally, what makes for a successful Legend?

Coogan To be a Legend, you must never act impulsively. You need to think on your feet, be pragmatic, not panic and overthink things, and be natural. It's like being in a band who are so competent playing their musical instruments that they can sit back, let things loosen up a bit and not be too tight. If they do all that, then they'll be successful Legends.

Burke In terms of the Legend or false identity, you've got to go with something that overlaps with the real you somewhere, and then not be too fixed about it. You've got to be very adaptable in your thinking.

A week of tributes and special programmes as national treasure Sir David Attenborough turns 100

Close encounters with mountain gorillas in Rwanda

NEW FACTUAL

Making Life on Earth: Attenborough's Greatest Adventure

Sunday, 8pm, BBC1

Wild celebrations

This week marks a milestone for the country's most beloved broadcaster as Sir David Attenborough turns 100 on Friday 8 May.

From his first screen appearance on Zoo Quest in 1954 to his current five-part series Secret Garden, which concludes on Sunday (6.15pm, BBC1), Attenborough has brought us a lifetime of extraordinary natural-history moments and inspired generations with his tireless campaigning to protect the planet.

To celebrate the occasion, the BBC is paying tribute to the pioneering film-maker with a week of special programming across all BBC channels, plus BBC iPlayer and BBC Radio, including episodes from his best-loved series and a tribute from London's Royal Albert Hall (see box, top right).

LANDMARK EVENT

On Sunday evening, new one-off documentary Making Life on Earth: Attenborough's Greatest Adventure looks back at the groundbreaking Life on Earth series, which aired to great acclaim in 1979. Attenborough and his colleagues look back on the challenges they overcame while visiting 40 countries and filming 600 species to tell the story of evolution.

Life on Earth is best remembered for the astonishing encounter between Attenborough and a group of mountain gorillas, the groundwork for which had been laid by a production team reliant on landlines and letters for communication.

'Rwanda was a challenge,' recalls production assistant Jane Wales, who corresponded with Dian Fossey, the American mountain-gorilla expert based in the African country. 'Letters would take at least three weeks to get to her, and then we'd have to wait another three for the reply.'

The painstaking preparation paid off when Attenborough unexpectedly found himself interacting with a female gorilla and her offspring.

'I felt a hand on my head,' he recalls. 'It was the adult female, and she twisted my head round so she could see me, and put a finger in my mouth.'

For producer John Sparks, it was a heart-stopping moment.

'I thought: "My God, his head's going to come off!"' he recalls. '"And we haven't finished the series yet!"'

● Sky Nature also pays tribute to the broadcaster this week with a raft of his Sky programmes, plus the one-off tribute Attenborough at 100: Behind the Lens (Friday, 10am)

NEW ENTERTAINMENT

David Attenborough's 100 Years on Planet Earth

Friday, 8.30pm, BBC1

A celebration from London's Royal Albert Hall, hosted by Kirsty Young, will look back at Sir David Attenborough's extraordinary career and highlight the developments that have occurred in the natural world over the past century.

Steve Backshall, Liz Bonnin and Chris Packham are among those paying tribute, while the BBC Concert Orchestra will play original compositions from some of the broadcaster's groundbreaking series.

DID YOU KNOW?

- David Frederick Attenborough was born on 8 May 1926 in Isleworth, Middlesex. His older brother, Richard (1923-2014), would become a celebrated, Oscar-winning actor and director.
- As a schoolboy in Leicestershire, he spent hours looking for fossils, which he displayed in a homemade museum in his bedroom. He went on to study Natural Sciences at the University of Cambridge.
- In 1950, Attenborough married his university sweetheart Jane Oriel. Settling in Richmond, London – still his home today – they had two children, Robert and Susan. Jane sadly died in 1997, aged 70.
- He joined the BBC in 1952 as an assistant producer, coming up with the idea of filming overseas wildlife for Zoo Quest – something which had never been done before. He ended up in front of the cameras when the regular presenter fell ill. The rest is history...

WORLD OF WONDER

Five of the star's most memorable encounters...

King penguin

Life in the Freezer (BBC1, 1993)

Reporting from Antarctica, Attenborough immersed himself in the middle of a 600,000-strong king-penguin colony – huddled together in freezing temperatures – and was surrounded by curious chicks eager to meet their human visitor.

Lyrebird

The Life of Birds (BBC1, 1998)

In a southern Australian forest, Attenborough eavesdropped on the remarkable lyrebird as a male performed his huge repertoire of courtship calls – even mimicking other sounds he had heard, from a car alarm to a chainsaw.

Pinta Island tortoise

Galapagos 3D (Sky One, 2013)

To highlight the planet's extinction crisis, Attenborough had a moving final encounter with a giant tortoise called Lonesome George, the last survivor of the Pinta species of tortoise, who sadly died 14 days later.

Rhino

Africa (BBC1, 2013)

There was a heart-melting moment when a blind rhino calf wandered into shot while Attenborough was filming in Kenya. The delighted presenter dropped to his hands and knees to communicate with his curious visitor through squeaks.

Harvest mouse

Wild London (BBC1, 2026)

Exploring the wildlife in his adopted home city of London, Attenborough visited Greenford. There, he gently cradled a harvest mouse before releasing it into a meadow, where the tiny mammals are being reintroduced.

Deadly obsession

Sally Lindsay and Jill Halfpenny star in a thriller about a TV presenter pursued by a dangerous fan

NEW THRILLER

Number One Fan

Holiday Monday-Thursday, 9pm, 5 (box set, 5 Streaming)

Sally Lindsay and Jill Halfpenny are familiar faces on 5 thanks to hit dramas like The Madame Blanc Mysteries and The Feud, and now the two stars have joined forces for a new four-part thriller, Number One Fan.

The series stars Halfpenny as Lucy Logan, the host of her own hugely popular morning TV show. While out shopping one day, Lucy is the victim of a violent mugging, and is saved by the intervention of passer-by Donna (Lindsay).

'Donna swiftly comes to her rescue and gets rid of the mugger,' says Halfpenny, 50. 'Lucy is kind of amazed – she didn't need to do it, but Donna put herself in harm's way for her. She is overly grateful for what Donna has done.'

STALKER ALERT!

When Donna admits that she's a huge fan of Lucy's, the TV star invites her to the studio to watch her show being filmed. However, Donna quickly wears out her welcome, and when Lucy's family and home life come under threat, it seems this fan has a hidden agenda.

'It's a bit of a rollercoaster,' says Lindsay. 'You think the show's taking you down one path with this famous TV presenter, the queen of daytime television, who meets someone who adores her, and then you go down this completely different path that you're not expecting.'

Number One Fan is the first time Lindsay and Halfpenny have acted opposite each other, and they were delighted to finally get to work together.

PERFECT PARTNERSHIP

'We had a meeting once about a potential project around five or six years ago, but it never happened,' recalls Lindsay, 52. 'We work so well together – I think it's one of those partnerships we didn't know we needed.'

'We really enjoy each other's company, and have a very similar work ethic,' adds Halfpenny. 'Both of us have done shows that work very quickly, where no one is going to hang around and wait while you have a little think about it. We're very good at being able to do things from take one. It doesn't take us ages to warm up.'

As Donna's true intentions towards Lucy become apparent over the course of the series, their relationship takes an increasingly violent turn. Fortunately, things were more harmonious behind the scenes, and the two leads enjoyed getting physical with one another in their fight scenes.

‘It’s not our first rodeo – we’ve both done quite a lot of fights and slaps on screen,’ says Lindsay. ‘Our rehearsals would only take about 10 minutes, then we just did it. Some of Donna and Lucy’s fights are gruesome and vile, but Jill’s such a massive pro that it was all brilliant.’

TWISTS AND TURNS

The series also stars Last Tango in Halifax’s Dean Andrews as Stewart Jones, a disgraced former TV presenter who blames Lucy for his exile from the industry.

‘Dean is brilliant in this,’ says Halfpenny. ‘We had a really challenging scene together in this old farmhouse in the middle of nowhere. It was dark and dank, and there was a lot going on. I think people will enjoy seeing how we have approached what goes on behind the cameras.’

Both stars hope viewers will be gripped by the twists and turns of Number One Fan.

‘It’s very well-written,’ explains Halfpenny. ‘The propulsion of it really makes you want to watch the next one, and the next – it goes at quite a lick.’

‘There’s an immediacy that is exciting,’ agrees Lindsay. ‘There’s a lot of television nowadays where you’re three episodes in and still don’t really know what’s going on – but that is absolutely not this.

‘I’d love for people to go into work the next day and enjoy a good old-fashioned television water-cooler moment.’

Heaven & Hell

Jess Alexander stars in an epic fantasy adventure

NEW FROM itvX

NEW FANTASY DRAMA

Fallen

From Sunday 3 May, ITVX

Luce and Daniel (Gijs Blom)

Forbidden love and a supernatural war between the forces of heaven and hell are at the heart of new fantasy series Fallen.

Based on US author Lauren Kate's bestselling 2009 young-adult novel, which has sold over 10 million copies worldwide, the eight-part drama sees British actor Jess Alexander play troubled Lucinda 'Luce' Price.

After a tragic accident for which she's found guilty of arson and manslaughter (a crime she doesn't remember), Luce is sent to the forbidding Sword & Cross reform facility in Savannah, Georgia, where she starts having strange visions and discovers secrets tied to her past.

DARK PUZZLE

'Luce is someone who has lived multiple lives, and whenever she falls in love, something tragic happens, and she is forced to start her life over again,' reveals Alexander, 26, who recently starred in Sky Atlantic series Amadeus. 'Our story has more edge and darkness than the book, with a few extra surprises thrown in.'

Sarah Niles plays twins

The creepy facility is surrounded by a force field to prevent inmates from escaping, and also to keep out the 'outcasts' – a species of aliens painted with zebra stripes. Meanwhile, Luce is soon drawn to the mysterious and enigmatic Daniel, played by Dutch star Gijs Blom.

'Like the rest of the inmates at the facility, Daniel doesn't really have a clue who he is,' says Blom, 29. 'He knows that he came to Sword & Cross because of a motorcycle accident, but he doesn't know how it happened. He is about to escape when Luce arrives, and he decides that she will be the key for him to find out more about his past.'

Filmed in Budapest, the series also stars Ted Lasso's Sarah Niles as twin sisters Ms Miriam and Ms Sophia, who run the prison-like institute, and Game of Thrones' Alexander Siddig as the sinister chief psychiatrist, Dr Howson.

Meanwhile, Timothy Innes (The Last Kingdom) plays charismatic but manipulative Cameron 'Cam' Briel, one of Luce's fellow students who uses his charm to woo her upon her arrival at the reform facility and becomes the main romantic rival to Daniel for Luce's affections.

'It's a story full of adventure, passion, love and self-discovery,' says Alexander. 'A lot of exciting things happen in this show – and there is also growth, friendship and violence.'

Self-obsessed Amanda returns for more shenanigans in SoHa

Me, myself

NEW COMEDY

Amandaland

Wednesday, 9pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

Social climber Amanda still fancies herself as the queen bee of SoHa (that's South Harlesden to the uninitiated) as BBC1's Motherland-spin-off Amandaland returns for more deliciously cringey alpha-mum exploits.

The six-part series begins with Amanda's long-suffering best friend/dogsbody Anne (Philippa Dunne) organising a careers event at the school – which Amanda sees as an opportunity to give an overblown TED Talk-style presentation about her life as an influencer for her online lifestyle brand Senuous.

Of course, she's still secretly working at Kichen's Bathrooms & Kitchens, but the less said about that the better…

'Amanda is more settled now, but she's still doing everything she can to elevate her social standing – and she's just as delusional about herself as ever,' says Lucy Punch, 48, who plays her. 'Her giant ego and status anxiety remain, so she still wants everyone to think she's the best.'

CHALLENGER

This time, Amanda might just meet her match with the arrival of her neighbour Mal's forthright ex Abs (Harriet Webb), who refuses to bow to Amanda's ego.

Later in the series, we can look forward to Amanda desperately

Generation game

Greg McHugh and Gregor Fisher are back as the quirky son and father

NEW COMEDY

Only Child

Wednesday, 9.30pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

Only Child* certainly struck a chord when it debuted in 2024. Starring Greg McHugh as actor Richard, it followed Richard as he returned to his home town to care for his widowed father Ken (Gregor Fisher).

As the comedy returns to BBC1 for a second six-part run this week, Richard is back living with Ken after being fired from his latest role in Norway. And he is given a reminder of how eccentric his dad is when he finds him asleep in a coffin.

'It was slightly alarming when the coffin lid was shut but, thanks to the props department, it was very comfortable,' smiles Fisher. 'I could trying to buy a bigger house, Anne dabbling as a social-media influencer, a potential romance between Amanda and Mal (Samuel Anderson), plus the arrival of Call the Midwife's Pam Ferris, who guest-stars as Amanda's neighbour Elspeth.

'I loved my scenes with Pam. She's brilliant,' says Punch. 'The hair, the heels, the gels and all the primping that's involved to look like Amanda help hugely. I know her so well that it's alarmingly easy to get into character.'

Among the returning cast are Siobhan McSweeney and Rochenda Sandall as power couple Della and Fi, plus Dame Joanna Lumley as Amanda's narcissistic mother Felicity.

'Felicity has a charming brief encounter in this series,' teases Lumley. 'Felicity's snide character is tempered by being rather ridiculous and strangely spot on in some of her observations. But if I could give her one piece of life advice, it would be stop being so selfish.'

Richard and Ken at the allotment have spent a fortnight in there.'

Richard is desperate not to bump into his unrequited love, Emily (Amy Lennox). But Ken doesn't want him moping around, so he suggests a trip to the local allotment.

FAMILY MATTERS

'Neither of them is good at the job of caring for each other,' says Fisher, 72. 'But what really comes out is how much they actually love each other.'

Later, at a meeting to save the allotment, Richard is devastated when Emily shows up with new love Tim (Kevin Bishop) in tow.

'Tim and Richard are polar opposites, so Richard finds it difficult that Emily has chosen to be with him,' says McHugh. 'The whole scenario is complicated.'

Both actors have been blown away by the response to Series 1 and enjoyed interacting with fans.

'One woman told me Only Child had started a discussion about what it was to be a carer, so, while it's a mainstream comedy, it was lovely to get feedback on the show's other themes,' says McHugh, 46.

Meanwhile, Fisher encountered a somewhat different reaction during a recent trip to the supermarket.

'I had someone saying to me, "You remind me of my dad, who's a bit of a handful,"' he grins. 'I only went in for butter and ended up getting lip.'

Sally Field stars alongside a giant octopus in a tale of unlikely friendship

The best of Netflix, Prime Video, Disney+ and more...

Tova meets Marcellus

NETFLIX Remarkably Bright Creatures

NEW Available: Friday 8 May
Genre: Drama

When Hollywood royalty Sally Field first picked up a copy of Shelby Van Pelt's bestselling novel Remarkably Bright Creatures in 2022, she immediately knew the story would make a wonderful and heart-warming movie.

'The whole story is so surprising and life-affirming,' says Field, who has won two Oscars for her roles in Norma Rae (1979) and Places in the Heart (1984). 'It's a homage to life and the connection human beings have to creatures.'

Field joined forces with Netflix to bring the project to light.

'I read four chapters of the book and said, "We need to get this,"' she adds. 'It was a long journey. We worked relentlessly just to get that screenplay and even when we were shooting, we were constantly fixing and letting the story breathe and have its own existence outside of the book.'

Field takes on the role of Tova, a widow who works as an after-hours cleaner at her local aquarium in the fictional Washington town of Sowell Bay and who is haunted by the loss of her son. As she processes her grief, she forms an unlikely bond with a giant Pacific octopus named Marcellus, voiced by Alfred Molina.

FEEL-GOOD FACTOR

'The film is a warm hug that we all need right now,' says director Olivia Newman. 'It is a movie that looks at heavy topics like grief and longing for connection and feeling at a crossroads – but it's also a joyful film. There's a hopefulness to it.'

Tova discovers she's set to be replaced by Cameron (Lewis Pullman, son of Bill Pullman), a young man who arrives in Sowell Bay looking for his father. The colleagues don't get off to the best start, but after Cameron learns of Tova's troubles from shop owner Ethan (Colm Meaney), the pair bond over shared trauma and a mutual love for Marcellus.

'I'd read with a couple of other young actors, but the minute Lewis walked in, I just knew it was him,' says Field, 79. 'We started improvising and having fun with the roles and laughing.'

After making her screen debut in the early 1960s, Field has since starred in such iconic movies as Smokey and the Bandit (where she met future partner Burt Reynolds), Steel Magnolias, Mrs Doubtfire and Forrest Gump. But she admits that playing an older woman was a new challenge.

'I think the unique thing about Tova is that she's an old lady and so am I,' she says. 'And I've never played that before, really.'

GOLDEN GOALS

The inside story of Brazil's fourth World Cup win

NETFLIX USA 94: Brazil's Return to Glory

NEW Available: Thursday 7 May
Genre: Documentary

With their silky skills and samba style, the Brazil football team has built a reputation for being the finest exponents of the beautiful game while racking up more World Cup wins than any other nation.

However, their unique success brings pressure and expectation, so every tournament that doesn't end in victory is a bitter disappointment.

Brazil's 1970 triumph was seen as a defining World Cup moment, but it was followed by their longest-ever drought, and by 1994 the demand for success was at fever pitch.

'We hadn't won the World Cup for 24 years,' recalls midfielder Raí. 'That's way too long for Brazil.'

After a disappointing performance at Italia 90 and a lacklustre qualifying campaign, the Brazilian side were not well-fancied when they travelled to the USA in 1994, yet they managed to win a historic fourth world title.

Teammates Romário and Raí

Now, the story of that victory is told in this Netflix special, featuring behind-the-scenes footage shot by goalkeeper Gilmar Rinaldi and right-back Jorginho, who filmed the team's day-to-day experiences.

ALL THE WAY

The never-before-seen clips appear alongside interviews with stars such as Romário, Dunga and striker Bebeto, who was inspired by the millions of football fans back home.

'When I put on that jersey, I became someone else entirely,' he says. 'Our people are so hard-working and have gone through so much. I thought, "I've got to bring some joy to them."'

After victories against Cameroon and Russia and a draw with Sweden in the group stages, Brazil defeated hosts USA in the round of 16, then beat the Netherlands and Sweden to secure a place against Italy in the final.

After a goalless draw, it became the first World Cup final to be decided on penalties, with Italy's Roberto Baggio missing the decisive spot kick.

'People still tell me where they were when we won the fourth title,' says midfielder Zinho. 'Everyone has a specific memory attached to that game.'

Matthew McConaughey joins Bear Grylls to tackle a daring cliff-face descent

NEW FACTUAL

Bear Grylls Is Running Wild

Tuesday, 9pm, Sky One

Bear Grylls loves putting Hollywood A-listers through their paces with his perilous adventures around the globe, and he's clearly revelling being back with a new series of Bear Grylls Is Running Wild on Sky One, in which he gets to test the mettle of stars like Uma Thurman and Elizabeth Banks.

First up this week, Grylls, 51, whisks Oscar winner Matthew McConaughey to the glacial wilderness of Norway. Best known for films like Dallas Buyers Club and Interstellar, McConaughey is used to being at the centre of the action. But he's seriously pushed out of his comfort zone with a waterfall ascent, an overnight camp and a meal of reindeer testicle.

McConaughey rappels an 800ft rock face

ICY CHALLENGES

'There's something about being out in Mother Nature that's such a buzz,' McConaughey tells Grylls during the trek. 'I've never been to Norway before, but being out here is one heck of a gift.'

Grylls guides the 56-year-old actor through a remote glacial valley, navigating treacherous terrain and frigid Arctic lakes. Meanwhile, McConaughey opens up about faith, fatherhood and his friendship with his True Detective co-star Woody Harrelson.

Norway's icy terrain proves a tough test, especially when Grylls challenges him to rappel down 800ft of pure granite rock – the longest rappel in Running Wild history.

'You know you're strapped in, but it's still an abnormal thing to do, so it's about trusting the equipment,' says McConaughey. 'It's true that we usually remember the getaways that are the most adventurous – the ones that don't have the silk sheets or the pina coladas. It wasn't necessarily my comfort zone, but I'll remember the experience.'

Harvey's Casino as the bomb went off

High-stakes HEIST

How a casino was held to ransom by a vengeful bomb-maker...

John Birges in cuffs in 1981

NEW FACTUAL

This Is a Bomb: The Nevada Casino Heist

Tuesday, 9.45pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

On 26 August 1980, a huge bomb disguised as a computer was wheeled into Harvey's Wagon Wheel Casino in Lake Tahoe in Nevada, bearing a note stating that if a $3 million ransom wasn't paid within 24 hours, the bomb would detonate.

'I'd never seen anything so sinister in my life,' recalls Michael Rowe, former district attorney. 'It was absolutely terrifying.'

This three-part series shows how the story unfolded, as the FBI raced against the clock to track down the extortionists.

REVENGE PLOT

It turned out that the bomb was built by 'Big John' Birges, then 59, who had lost everything gambling at the casino and wanted revenge.

Birges was a violent and abusive father and he forced his sons, John Jr and Jim, to help him build the tamper-proof device, which was packed with 1,000lb of dynamite, and carry out his plan.

'He continually told us we were worthless, and whatever choices I've made in my life were based on getting [my father's] approval,' admits Jim, who was just 19 at the time. 'It's a twisted form of love. I was trying to please him by going along with this plan and trying to get his affirmation by potentially killing people. The guy was pure evil.'

As the FBI tried to dismantle the bomb, the device was triggered, and the resulting explosion obliterated the building, but, thankfully, with no casualties.

PAYING THE PRICE

It wasn't until a year later that the family was arrested, following a tip-off from a hotel owner who had rented Birges and his sons a room on the night the bomb was planted. While his sons were granted immunity for testifying against him, Birges was handed a life sentence in 1982. He died in 1996, aged 74.

'It was a relief to the family,' says Kirk Ledbetter, grandson of the casino owner, Harvey Gross. 'Even to this day, it's scary processing the damage that was done to the community and my grandfather.'

HOPPERS

Pixar Studio scores a bullseye yet again in this hilarious, madcap thrill ride

ANIMATION

From Tuesday, buy or rent from digital stores, including Sky Store and Prime Video ★★★★

Pixar's eco-friendly animated action comedy Hoppers has a set-up that is so fantastically contrived you would think it couldn't possibly work, but thanks to the studio's magic touch it turns out to be a zippy madcap delight. Even so, the script has to do some heavy lifting before the story can take off. The film's heroine is 19-year-old animal-rights activist Mabel (voiced by Piper Curda) and she is determined to prevent her town's oily mayor (Jon Hamm) from destroying the forest glade she has loved since childhood.

Preventing the mayor from putting a road through the glade seems an impossible task until she comes across some bonkers tech invented by her university professor (Kathy Najimy) that allows humans to communicate with animals after 'hopping' their consciousness into a lifelike robotic animal.

With her mind now inhabiting a robot beaver, Mabel attempts to rally the local animals – headed by amiable beaver leader King George (Bobby Moynihan) – to save their habitat.

The plot just gets crazier, reaching peak daffiness with the sight of beaver-Mabel and the mayor careering along a mountain pass in a car, trying to evade being 'squished' by a flying great white shark named Diane. Somehow, thanks to lively animation, good gags and plenty of laughs and heart from the voice cast (listen out, too, for Meryl Streep as an imperious insect queen), Hoppers stays on the road. 2026, PG, 104MIN

Don't Let's Go to the Dogs Tonight

Sunday, 6.30am & 2.40pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

It's 1980 in Zimbabwe (or Rhodesia, as it then was) and the country is in turmoil, as the white minority starts to lose its grip on power. Caught up in this is the white farming family of seven-year-old Bobo (a simply extraordinary Lexi Venter), whose erratic, habitually drunken mother (Embeth Davidtz, who also directs) is in denial about the reality around her. Seen through the eyes of the smoking, beer-swilling, virtually feral Bobo, this fascinating, utterly engrossing film, based on Alexandra Fuller's hit memoir, highlights the fear – shown most starkly by Lexi's mum snuggling in bed with a submachine gun – as well as the endemic racism of the white farmers. Davidtz has made a superb, clear-eyed film about a deeply troubling time. 2024, 15, 99MIN

Spinal Tap II: The End Continues

Saturday, 8am, 4.10pm & 10.25pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

A work of comic genius, 1984's This Is Spinal Tap, the spoof rockumentary about a fictional metal band's disastrous comeback tour, set the gold-disc standard for the spoof rockumentary genre. It couldn't be a harder act to follow, but 41 years later original director Rob Reiner, along with co-writers and stars Christopher Guest, Michael McKean and Harry Shearer give it a shot. Band members Nigel Tufnel (Guest), David St Hubbins (McKean) and Derek Smalls (Shearer) haven't played together for 15 years, but a contractual obligation sees them getting back together for a final gig. Although the film isn't as funny or as sharp as its predecessor, the band's fraught journey to the concert throws up some good gags and features starry cameos from the likes of Paul McCartney and Elton John. 2025, 15, 83MIN

Grief, isolation and constant danger drive this tense survival thriller set in the Australian outback. Charlize Theron delivers a powerful performance as a recently widowed woman who heads into the remote landscape in search of solitude – only to find herself pursued after a chance encounter with Taron Egerton's mysterious stranger. Egerton is terrific in this darker role, bringing an unpredictable edge to his grinning, unhinged serial killer. A grim and grimy tale of a family that runs a drug empire out in the wilds of Arkansas, this follows one member of the clan, played by Billy Magnussen, who wants nothing to do with the business, attempting to leave it all behind with his bride-to-be Alexandra Shipp. But tragic events pull him back in, leading him to a face off with his cruel, sadistic cousin (a superbly venomous James Badge Dale), as well as Magnussen's uncle (Ray McKinnon). Although uneven and treading a wellworn trail, this incredibly brutal, blood-soaked movie does deliver some excellent performances and standout moments. 2025, 15, 112MIN

Downton Abbey: The Grand Finale

Friday, 7.55am & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

The final curtain comes down on Julian Fellowes' long-running and much-loved TV series with this typically sedate and well-staged last film spin-off. Having followed the aristocratic adventures of the Crawley family, and the below-stairs staff who keep their stately home in Yorkshire running, since before World War One, this last act sees Hugh Bonneville's Lord Robert Crawley, aka the Earl of Grantham, facing big changes as the 1930s arrive.

But just as he is contemplating handing over the running of Downton to his daughter Lady Mary (Michelle Dockery), she faces social pariahdom when her divorce becomes public. Should he stay to steady the ship, or should he make way for his forward-thinking heir?

That's the main dilemma in a plot which concentrates on the drawing-room dramas and lavish social events that made the series such a success. All about celebrating a bygone era when people knew their place, Downton is nothing if not nostalgic and while the late Maggie Smith's acid wit is missed, it's enjoyable to see how the story plays out for the cast of regulars, while Paul Giametti, Alessandro Nivolo and Dominic West have fun making mischief in the supporting cast. All in all, a fitting farewell to a British TV institution. 2025, PG, 124MIN

Giro d'Italia

The first Grand Tour of the season heads towards Rome

LIVE CYCLING

From Friday, TNT Sports 3

British cycling enjoyed one of its greatest successes of recent years at the 2025 Giro d'Italia when Simon Yates won the prestigious road race for the first time.

After making a sensational finish, overhauling Mexican Isaac del Toro in dramatic fashion on the penultimate stage, Yates became just the third Brit to win the competition after Chris Froome in 2018 and Tao Geoghegan Hart in 2020.

The Bury-born cyclist won't be defending his title after making a shock decision to retire from the sport, but the Grand Tour still boasts several big names who will be battling it out for the famous pink jersey.

LEADING THE PACK

Simon's twin brother Adam Yates will be among those taking part, this time carrying out support duties for his UAE Team Emirates colleague João Almeida of Portugal.

'I talk to my brother every day. We're super close,' says Adam. 'Simon is enjoying life and things he couldn't do when he was a cyclist. It's a new way of life for him, but I can continue for another five or six years.'

Race favourite Jonas Vingegaard

In the absence of Slovenia's formidable Tadej Pogačar, Team Visma's Jonas Vingegaard starts as favourite. After victories in the Tour de France (2022 and 2023) and Vuelta a España (2025), the Danish rider will be aiming to complete a hat-trick of the three Grand Tours in his first appearance at the Giro.

'I've never done the Giro before and now the time has come,' he says. 'This year, they have designed a great course. It's perhaps not as demanding as in recent years, which makes combining the Giro and the Tour de France a favourable option. I have already won in France and Spain. Now I want to do the same in Italy. I would love to add the pink jersey to my collection.'

Jennifer Lopez and Brett Goldstein as Jackie and Daniel

FIRST LOOK

Office Romance

Jennifer Lopez and Brett Goldstein star in a steamy workplace comedy

Here's an intriguing first peek at Netflix's upcoming romcom Office Romance, which centres on two colleagues who embark on an illicit liaison.

Available from Friday 5 June, the film, directed by Ol Parker (Mamma Mia: Here We Go Again!), sees Jennifer Lopez play workaholic Jackie Cruz, who runs her own business, Air Cruz, while Ted Lasso's Brett Goldstein is Daniel Blanchflower, a lawyer who joins her company.

But sparks fly between the pair, and they begin a passionate romance that they have to keep quiet about due to the strict anti-fraternisation policy that Jackie has enforced.

PASSIONATE AFFAIR

'The script is fun and raunchy,' says Lopez. 'It's a classic romance, with modern, edgier humour. It felt instantly special, a new kind of romantic comedy that really speaks to the times. I think it's exactly what we all need now.'

'Every day I come to work to do a romcom with Jennifer Lopez and this incredible cast, and I expect people to jump out and tell me I'm being pranked,' adds Goldstein, who has also co-written the comedy with Joe Kelly. 'Hasn't happened yet, so maybe this is real?'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Dame Penelope Wilton

The actor will join Sir Jonathan Pryce for ITV1's factual drama Mavis Eccleston, which follows an elderly couple who plan to take their own lives together, but when Mavis survives, she is charged with her husband Dennis' murder.

Dan Stevens

In BBC1's Cold War–set drama, Legacy of Spies, based on John le Carré's novels, the actor is joining the cast as shrewd agent Bill Haydon, a colleague of spymaster George Smiley (Matthew Macfadyen).

Coming Back

Diane Morgan will reprise her role as clueless broadcaster Philomena Cunk in BBC2's three-part mockumentary Cunk on Cinema, in which her alter ego will explore the history of the silver screen from the birth of the camera to CGI.

A second run of Sky One's comedy The 'Burbs, a reimagining of the 1989 film, will see Jack Whitehall (pictured) and Keke Palmer return as Rob and Samira, who will be faced with more mysteries to unravel in suburbia.

Next week On sale Tuesday 5 May

Rivals

A second helping of Disney+'s racy 1980s-set romp starring Bella Maclean and Alex Hassell.

Believe Me

Victims of rapist John Worboys fight for justice in ITV1's drama. Aimée-Ffion Edwards stars.

Michael Sheen and David Tennant return for the fantasy's swansong on Prime Video.
